My Blog List Sunday, June 27, 2016 We all are aware of the astronomical aspects of the Earth but then we don't really realize about the effect on the planet that could be caused by human activity. I mean, one wrong step and we could be creating a disaster like that of the Gulf of Mexico. I think that every one should consider the effects of every step they make. Doing that will help us to reduce the footprint of our own generation. Only then we can save the Earth for the future generations. As we are living in a time of exploitation, making friends is the only way for survival. Every effort that we put forward towards the conservation of the Earth we should make our mission to be understanding each other. If we do not understand the power of our actions on the Earth and its resources, then we can never work towards any solution. We can work towards making our work more meaningful by telling to people how they are part of the problem or the solution. We should be very careful about the things that we do, for that we should be aware about the facts. We should look through the books and listen to the sermons in order to understand what we should be doing in future. We should not cut trees to generate electricity. We should not be taking petroleum from unnatural sources. We should be supporting solar technology to generate electricity in mass. Few scientists have said that if we don't take care of the resources we have then it will lead to our extinction. We should not be investing in the technologies that increase the pollution and leakage of carbon from the different industries that we have. We should make a change in the direction in which we are going with the technology in order to save the planet. We should take care of our resources instead of exploiting them. We all should take up more initiatives to help the planet. We should maintain the forests and the lakes. We should respect the people and the animals as well
