Critter Kart is an action-packed racing game featuring a variety of fluffy critters. Players can earn pointstreak rewards as they race to gain access to more powerful abilities. Players may race alone, or with up to three other friends in splitscreen matches. Critter Kart currently features 5 unique locations, 11 playable characters, and 8 pointstreak rewards to add gameplay variety. Races can be customized to suit any session length or playstyle by giving players the freedom to choose the number of karts, laps, and the difficulty of their opponents. While Critter Kart's explosive physics-driven gameplay allows players to blast opponents off the track and make them spiral through the air, options exist for players to ease motion sickness including: permanent kart armor which prevents enemies from sending the player flying, comfort blinders that ease in with movement, and a fully-static arcade mode that allows players to grab the virtual steering wheel without motion sickness. Supported Input Devices: Xbox Controller, Dualshock 4, Logitech G920 Racing Wheel, Oculus Touch, Vive Wands Because I can never get enough views, please consider sharing this vid for others to see. I hope to know how to get it to work. Since you're the one who posted it I really appreciate it Video quality will be lower. But the 720p streaming quality seems to be the same quality as the 4k streaming. Now with the vid card being a 7k, high quality stream should be pretty easy. I'm testing a lot of things right now. My hope is that the 720p streaming will be really good, so that then I can save up to 30+ hours of work to get the 4k stream streaming. Setup: [AVC] Xbox Test Blu-ray [AAC2 720p] Windows Media Player [AAC2 4k] Windows Media Player SAMSUNG GYRO 1/10 Model C113 I'd like to know how to get a wide spread of tasks, or troubleshooting steps. Currently the PS4 is bypassing the HDMI 2.0a standard, and is now trying to reach the standard it was made for. I am using a Samsung HDMI cable that is 1.4 and thus is not fully capable of 1080p, but I am getting an error message that says 1080p support is not available. I am assuming that the 720p is the core mode and I am getting the picture at 720

Road Redemption is a 2.5 player, multiplayer game for board game enthusiasts where your goal is to rob cars from other players. Set in the vibrant, city of London, players work together to out-smart, out-drive and out-sneak each other in order to grow their crime ring into a criminal empire while demolishing their competition. This fast-paced game is easy to learn, exciting to play and brimming with personality. Whether you are a die hard board gamer or have never picked up a game piece in your life Road Redemption offers everything you're looking for in a board game. It's the ultimate game of cars, car jackin' and car rolling for 2.5 players. Features: FOUR STAGES After stealing cars throughout London you're finally ready to expand your empire. Four of the world's most dangerous cities are now open to you and each city can contain up to 12 jobs that each require you to complete certain objectives. Earn enough points to reach the next stage of the game and climb the ladder of crime. UNLIMITED CARS There is no limit to the number of cars you can steal. You can have as many as you want. No matter how many vehicles you have, there will be something in your fleet you can't drive away. VOICE ACTING Road Redemption features the voice of Chris (Nancy J. Bolton). We couldn't be more thrilled about this game being in the hands of such a talented game voiceover artist. FUN AND GAMES All of the content in the game is designed to be addicting, fun and games. The game consists of over 90 original designs of car models, over 100 original car sounds, over 30 unique locations for you to explore, and a whole host of unique and humorous objectives. CAN YOU GO HOME AGAIN? After you complete a job in the game you'll lose everything you stole. It's a problem none of us were prepared for. Thankfully there is a fantastic feature in the game that will allow you to 'go home again' and automatically return to the game with all of your possessions. 📍 c9d1549cdd

s On the kayak, I am a text book Waterman. I strongly believe in dredging before each passage, and doing multiples of the most strenuous maneuvers. When things happen with the kayak, I leave no stone unturned in applying compensation, because the repercussions are brutal if you don't. If you ask how many "Flowers in the Ocean", (which is my "kit name" for weighted door flaps) I have used over the years, I will say a whopping zero. I have seen Flush (a variation of weighted door flap) rates in the high teens, and the number of watertight daypacks is equal to the number of kayaks I have owned. Perhaps that is why I usually exit our kayak with a medium sized botch - just like in my younger days, but it hardly matters. Most of the things that go wrong get fixed, and that is one of the beauties of being on the water. Thank goodness it is not always "underwater paint-ball" (which is another story). We are planning to head out on the Amazon this summer, and I am re-learning what real lead weighting on your boat is all about. Not too much more is going to change on my kayak, as we have spent a lot of time and money improving our boat, and dressing it for the long arduous sailings we will be doing in the coming months. Is there a difference between "Shark Hopping" and "Sliding" for getting around the mouth of a river? Obviously it is safer if you "ride the ledge" on the strike side of the channel as you go out. My off-shore friend, "Joe the Mono" says the opposite is true, with a strike-side slide; following which the Sharks start a stop-go dance, the boats close to you are not too smart to follow you down channel after you get selected - if you are smart and stay out there. There is no sound or feel, that can replicate the feeling of a heavy loaded canoe. We have an advantage in the plastic tradition of getting loaded wherever we go, and I can get a pretty good "feel" for paddling with a loaded complement. Sliding has a different kind of feel. Canals can be tricky at times, with a lot of "prongs"

The US was ablaze with a wave of political violence in the years after the assassination of President Kennedy in 1963. The Mafia, the Ku Klux Klan, the Black Panthers, the Weathermen, and many others fought among themselves for control of the country. All of them were trying to intimidate, and ultimately terrorize, the American people. At the same time, assassinations, bombings, and acts of terrorism were becoming regular events. It is your job to put a stop to all this. As the director of the FBI's new F.I.D. division, you will take the lead in the investigation of these political assassinations. You will have to manage the agents, you will have to put together your team and your strategies. With your intuition, you will be able to see the most hidden mystery. You will need to collect great evidence as you sift through the clues around the country and around the world. Your job will be to assemble an international network of intelligence. In addition to the campaigns, your agents will be undergoing training, improving their skills. You will be able to learn new techniques, create your own new weapons and even new powers! This is the world of the 1960s, where the law of the jungle is prevalent and the morality of the Cold War threatens to destroy the country!
